Meetings and Significant Actions

The first meeting of the calendar year was held April 12, 2013 in Senate Room 3 in the State Capitol, with Vice Chair Delegate Chris Peace presiding. The Capitol Square site dedication ceremony was held this day. The memorial site dedication was performed by members of the Commission and Benjamin Norman of the Pamunkey Tribe. Members of the Commission were joined by tribal members, Administration members, media and the general public. Upon conclusion of the memorial site dedication and adjournment of the full Commission meeting, the Technique Subcommittee met to vote on the artist model submissions to decide on artist finalists to be invited to present to the full Commission at their next scheduled meeting.

The next meeting of the Commission was held September 17, 2012 in Senate Room A of the General Assembly Building and chaired by Vice Chair Delegate Chris Peace. The Technique Subcommittee invited four finalists to submit more detailed plans in the form of a scale model. Finalists were requested to visit the site and be prepared to give a public presentation of their proposal. At this meeting each of these artists presented their models to the Commission. From these four finalists, it was narrowed to two finalists.

The final meeting of the year was October 24, 2012. The Commission met to view presentations from the two invited artist finalists. From the two finalists and artists was chosen. Artists chosen: Alan Michekson, Project Named: Mantle: Proposal for the Virginia Indian Commemorative Commission. Mantle is a site-specific public monument on the grounds of Virginia's historic Capitol Square commemorating the contributions of Virginia's Indians. Oriented to the earth and incorporating existing trees, Mantle consists of four integrated spiral elements: a brick paved, five-foot wide, winding footpath; rising from and returning to the earth, a continuous smooth concrete wall that is also a bench for seating; natural, low maintenance landscaping consisting of a selection of perennial native plant species, including wildflowers, indigenous to Virginia; and at the center of the spiral, a circular reflecting pool containing the names of Virginia's eleven state-recognized Indian tribes in translucent cast-resin sculptural letterforms.
